Pattern Logic & Adaptive Action: Leadership in Health Systems

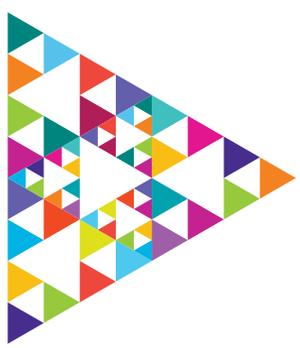

Work in Progress

Stewart Mennin

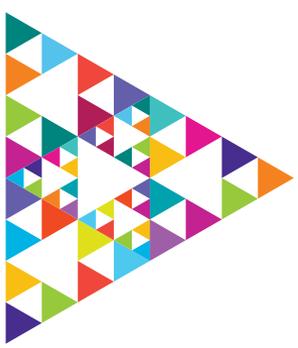

Mary Nations

What?

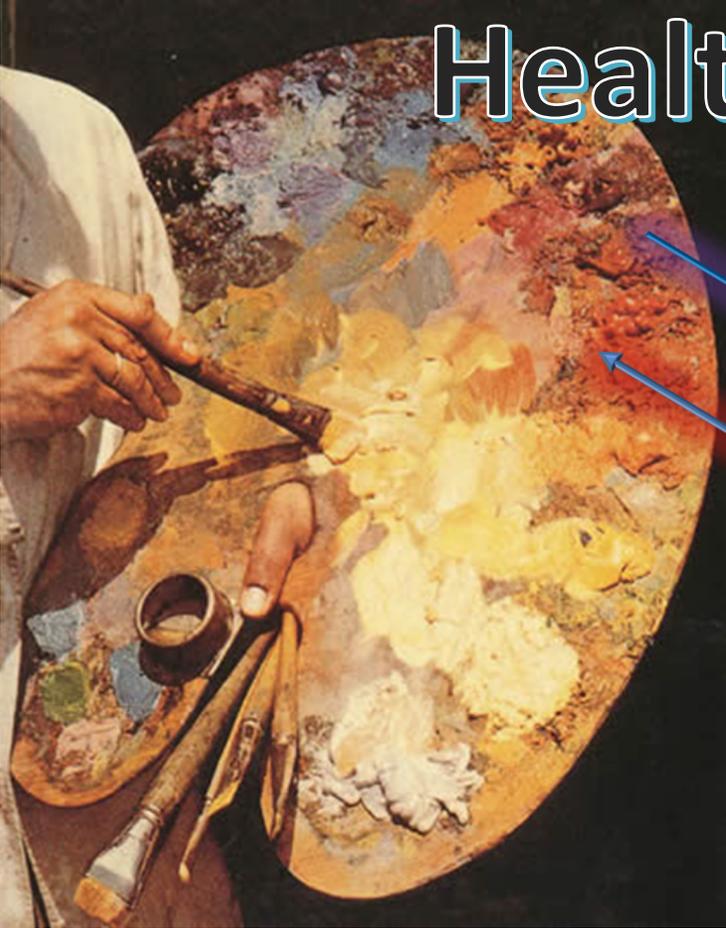

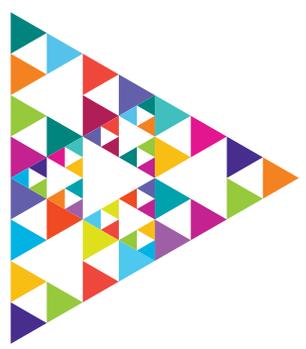

- Multiple adaptive action cycles of a course: leadership for health professions education
- Evolving containers
 - ▷ Face-to-face and online
 - ▷ Educators, practitioners, directors
 - ▶ Health services, systems
- Whole, part, greater whole
- Fit for function

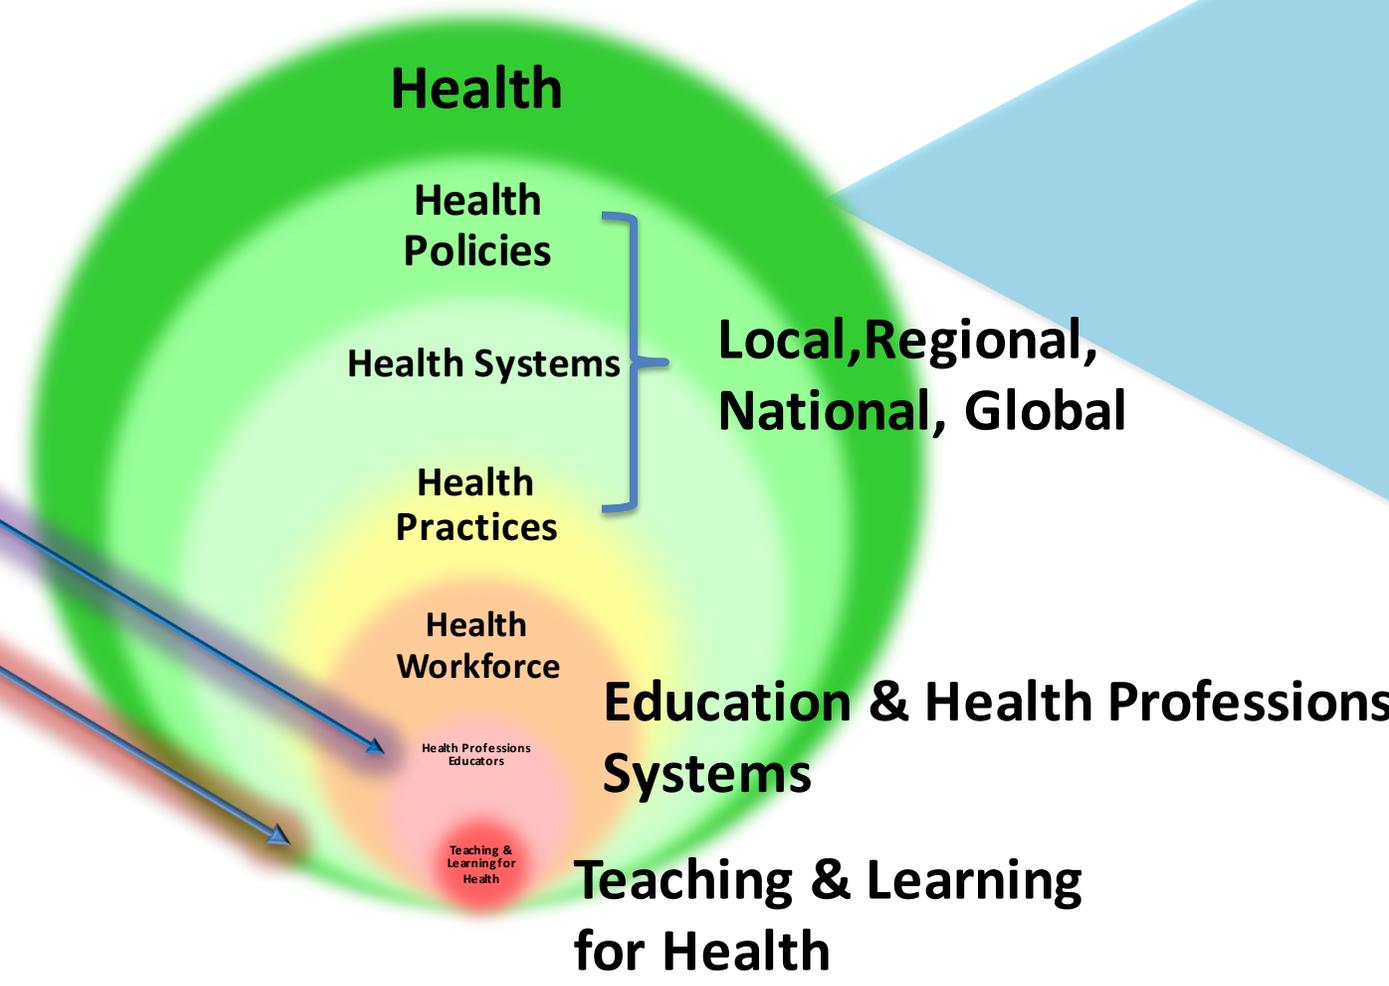

So What?

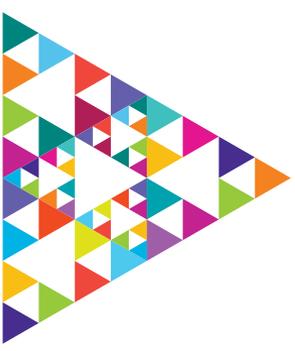

- Praxis works in ‘HSDized’ course
- New dimensions are accessible
- Good enough is bigger & smaller
 - ▷ Increasing coherence of scale
- Health is understood as resilience & sustainable- fit for function

Now What?

Health

Primary care is a team sport

First, employing nurses or care coordinators is one of the most valuable ways to help manage patients in greatest need of consistent and collaborative care. Second, greater emphasis on training medical students to work in team-based systems will improve a culture of communication. Finally, creating incentives and securing better compensation is essential to retain and attract enthusiastic and committed primary care physicians to lead the team. Regardless of the setting, the game plan for improving primary care should be one predicated on supporting leadership and teamwork, with the goal of more seamless coordination of care. ■ The Lancet

HSD Social Media Future

Sharing your HSD story

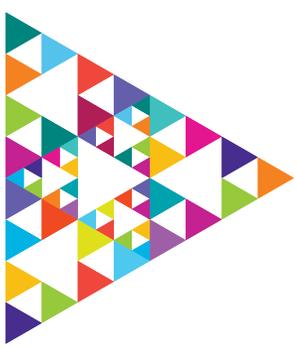

Heather Oxman

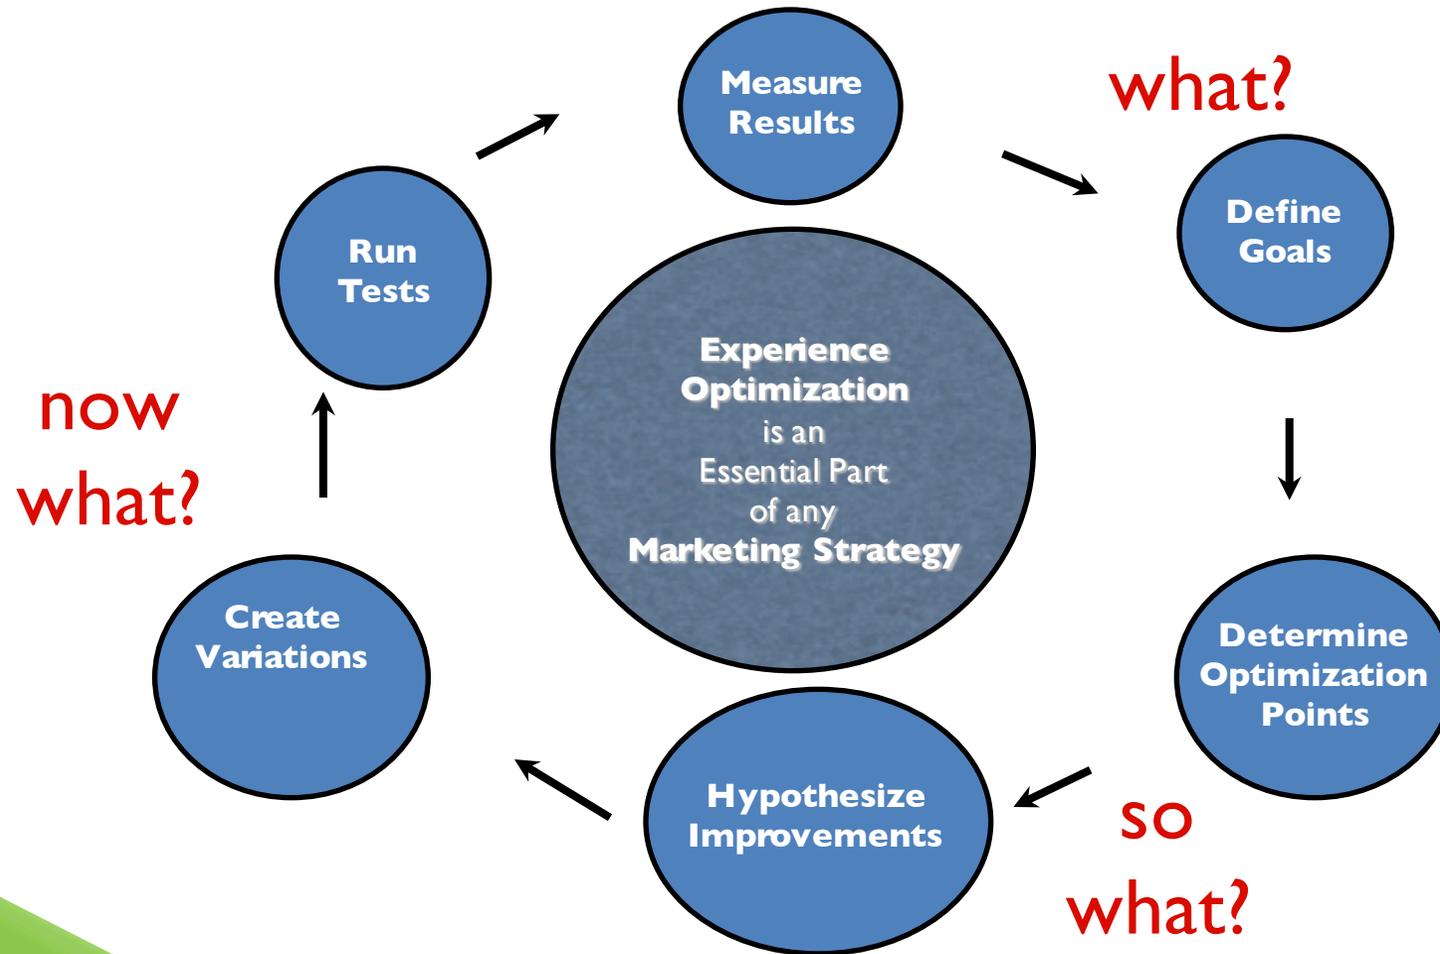

HSD social media future

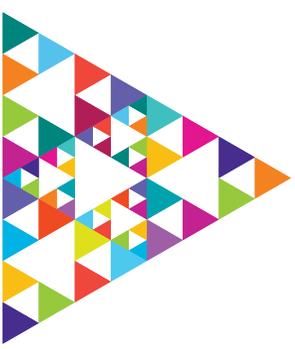

Sharing your HSD story

- What? Clarify and/or define goals: What influence we want to “play with” in Social Media environments?
- So What? Determine where we can optimize value in Social Media
- Now What? Experiments with Twitter, Facebook to measure engagement

Creating Social Media Experiences

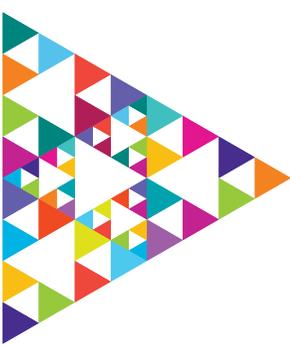

AT THE START

MEASURE RESULTS on existing HSD social media
(READY)

RUN TESTS (FIRE) - track and measure

DEFINE GOALS (AIM) - strategy and plans

The experience optimization loop helps break the looming question, “what is the value of social media?” into smaller, more measurable parts.

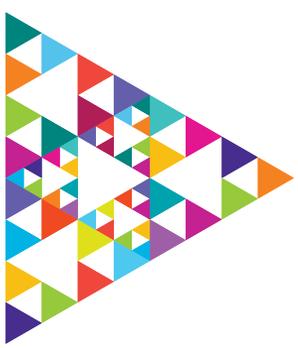

What?

FIRST: Do a Social Media Audit

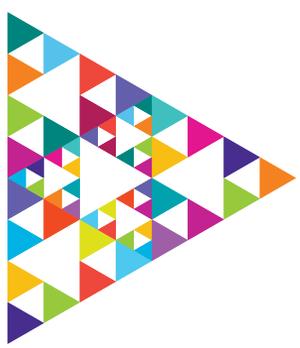

- Look at all the places you individually and collectively appear on social media
- Look for and clear up any inconsistencies in the social media streams (bios, pics, brand, tags...)
- Create Strategies for each stream
- Track growth in each stream from baseline activity / per month % change

Track engagement with each audience: response rate to messages; inbound messages; etc

But before creating new experiences

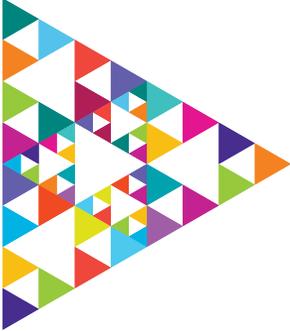

- What do we already do?
- What does each existing Social Media outlet do now for its audience?
 - Which social channel does my audience spend the most time on?
 - What kind of content are they most compelled to share?
 - What time of day are they most likely to interact on different channels?

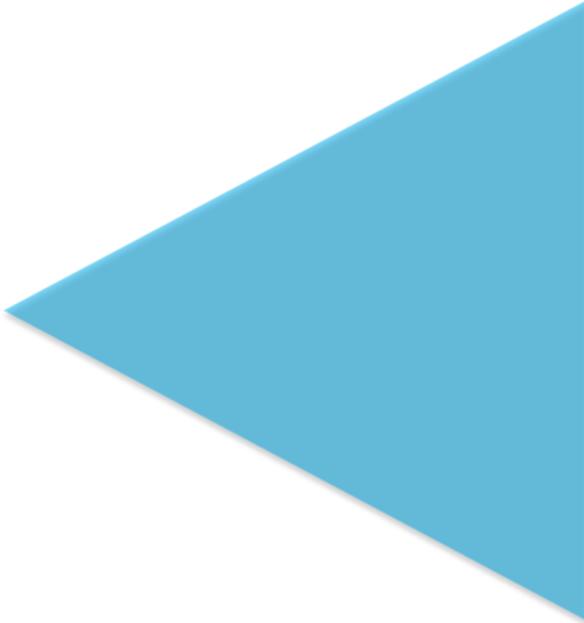

So What?

Next: Curate the content

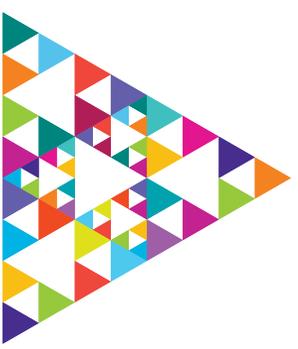

- Blogs
- LVWs
- hsdlearning.org
- wiki
- Links HSD has to others
- Links others have (or do not have) to HSD

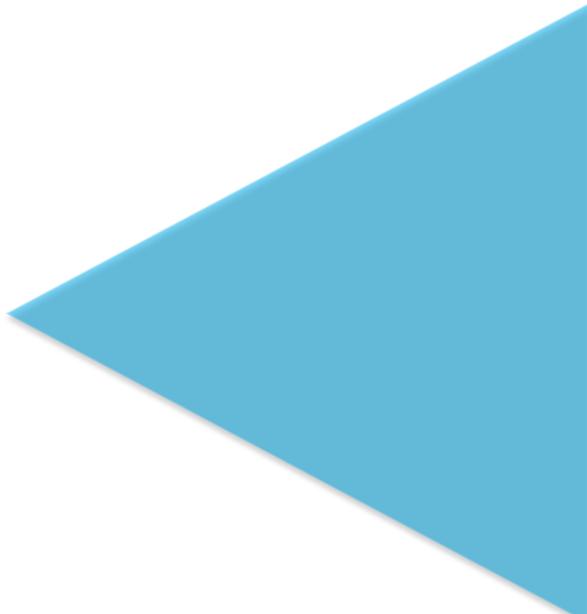

Now What?

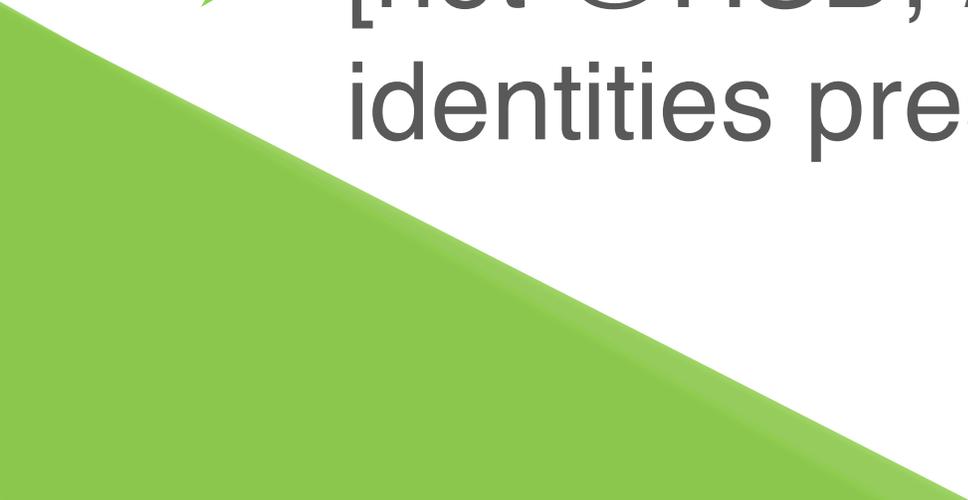

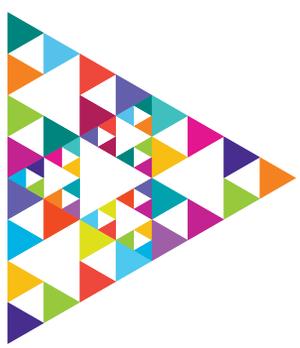

- THEN: Develop a Social Media Strategy and
- Approach that everyone follows.
 - ▷ Daily
 - ▷ Weekly
 - ▷ Monthly
 - ▷ Quarterly
